Stand Alone Stories

Finders Keepers: Sometimes finding what you want is the easy part. Caleb is a bionic soldier with little-to-no memory of his past. Aldo's an undercover cop who's searching for the man who got away. Then there's Sally, an ER physician who used to be married to Aldo's late partner, Davis. Sally's just looking for a reason to keep on getting up every day. This holiday season, chance will bring them together and give them an opportunity to help one another find what they each want most. But every gift comes with a price. And keeping what they've found once they've found it? Yeah, that's gonna be the hard part.

Can't Fight the Moonlight: When Coldpelt (Cole) Moonwalker's true shifter nature asserted itself, he was cast out of his pack—which is how he ended up at death's door. Both literally, and figuratively, since the door in question belongs to vampire Josiah Lodge. While Cole has dreams of someday finding a place where he can belong, he knows that place can never be with the scarred and surly vampire who undoubtedly has the blood of Cole's people on his hands.

Fall For You: Jocelyn Barnes couldn't wait to leave Heartwood in her rearview mirror—even if it meant breaking two hearts in the process. Now, with her career on hiatus and her great-aunt in need of help as she recovers from concussion, Jo finds herself right back where she started, older but not much wiser, about to make all the same mistakes all over again. With a goal of turning his legacy into a must-see, Hill Country destination, Carter Donahue's focus is on the future. The past? He'd rather that stayed buried. The last thing he needs (or wants) is to dig up those old feelings or fall back in love with his ex—especially when she’s already got one foot out the door. Again.

Que Será, Syrah: It’s not every day that you inherit one-third of a winery. Allegra Martinelli should be floating on Cloud Wine. Instead, her quest to earn her sisters’ respect and help them turn their winery into a straight fire success, is complicated by her relationship with Sheriff’s Deputy Clay Romero. This is the third book in the multi-author series, Pour Decisions.

Angels in the Afterlife

Edge of Heaven: Welcome to the afterlife, where men are men and the angels are fallen. Edge is an unlikely angel. Unable to atone for the sins he committed while human, he's resigned to spending the rest of eternity in Limbo. Until he meets a miracle named Matteo.

Angel Mine: When Mattie set his sights on Edge, he knew he'd get his man. After all, how hard could it be to waltz into Limbo, sweep his fellow angel off his feet and return with him to Heaven--where they both belonged? A lot harder than he imagined, apparently.

Christmas Angel: As an angel-in-training, Jake’s been sent back to earth to mend fences with his ex. Or has he? Certainly Tony doesn’t seem to think that's the case. Tony might have ninety-nine problems—and then some—between dealing with his meddlesome family AND running the family business (a Christmas tree farm in rural Texas) but he's pretty sure that playing catch-up with his ex-husband isn’t supposed to be one of them. It’s a little hard to imagine what kind of future the two of them could have when only one of them is alive.

Celtic Legends Stories

Iron: Nineteenth century Ireland. Blacksmith Gavin O'Malley faces a bitter choice. Will he lose his heart to the lovely fae Aislinn, or lose his soul to save her?

Oak: Twice each year, Aine Murphy ventures into the woods to hold ceremonies to honor the Oak King and the Holly King, never dreaming these Lords of the Forest could be anything more than myth. When the legends spring to life in front of her, how can she help but fall for the sexy demi-gods she's loved all her life?

Children of Night Series

In the Dark: 1969 San Francisco. When world-weary vampire meets adventure-seeking hippie chick it's love at first bite. But, when their star-crossed union results in newborn, vampire twins, that's anything but groovy.

Old Sins, Long Shadows: Living forever is hard, but loving forever? That's damn near impossible. For the sake of vampire twins Marc and Julie Fischer, Conrad and Damian present a united parental front. In reality, their truce is a sham.

Now Comes the Night: Growing up, vampire-born twins Julie and Marc Fischer were taught one simple fact of life: you can choose your food, but not your family. Six months after moving to San Francisco, though, the new challenges and choices each are facing are a Gordian knot of complicated.

Ashes of the Day: Intrigue and conflict within the nest continue to grow, fueled in no small part by Georgia's slipping hold on a deadly secret. Julie learns the hard way it's not just interspecies relationships that seldom work out. Meanwhile, Marc discovers that being a walking anomaly has certain advantages. Including some that are totally unexpected.

Fallen Embers: Conrad's relationship with Georgia, who has been his closest friend for centuries, is about to change. They've each been keeping dangerous secrets. Secrets with the power to destroy the entire clan. Now, with Julie's life threatened, the Fischer-Quintano vampires will have to learn the most painful truth of all. No lie hidden forever.

To Curse the Darkness: As all hell breaks loose at home, Marc is dangerously out of touch on a trip down the coast to find Elise and bring her home - though she insists he's a fool to trust her. Meanwhile, Julie is determined to go ahead with her plans to probe Georgia's thoughts for Conrad's sake, though the knowledge she seeks - and the venom-drenched ritual she must endure to get it - could cost her mind, if not her life.

Going Back To Find You: When Jason Cook boarded the train to San Francisco, he never thought he'd see Nebraska or Lizbeth Petersen ever again. But when an unexpected turn of events threatens the woman he'd been forced to leave behind, he has no choice but to go back and try to make things right.

Light Up the Night: Drew Geiger gave up on love a long time ago. Such tender emotions have no place in a vampire's heart. But, somehow, the girl he once described as a "feral kitten" has got her claws in him, and she's not letting go. That would be fine, if only someone didn't want her dead--and if her sire didn't recall that it was Drew who once suggested that maybe she'd be better off that way.

Games We Play Series

Truth Or Dare: Gwyn has her hands full trying to help save the family business; she has no time for romance. But when the two men with whom she once spent a drunken menage weekend show up with a sexy proposition, how can she resist?

Two Truths And A Lie: Concern about the future of her family's inn has Brenda tied up in knots; and not in a good way. She has no time to pursue an actual relationship. But pretending to date sexy Max Murphy, the hotel scout who's there to assess the property? That's totally doable. Especially when games, role-playing, and light bondage are included in the package.

The Name Game: Tino knows exactly what's hurting Carly's business and—exactly how to fix it. But his number one solution, changing the name of her signature sandwich, is the one thing she's not prepared to do.

Funnel of Love: Baker Rocco DiLuca is not a happy camper. He's just found out that his baby sister is getting married—to his former best friend—and he's not invited. But that's not even the worst part. They've hired someone else to make their wedding cake!

Put a Ring Around the Rosie: It's Valentine's Day! But Rosie and Alex's relationship still feels new and fragile. Adding a bunch of unrealistic expectations, or a need for chocolate hearts, plush toys, or rose colored anything to the mix seems like a bad idea.

Giada Mazzi is Living her Best Life: They were best friends turned high school sweethearts now they're two totally different people. Can the love they once shared provide a strong enough foundation for them to build a new life on—together? Or must they go their separate ways?
